Notice how the nested loop behaves. The j loop iterates for N times and the j loop itself is run N times.

So, the total number of runs would be N + N + …. N times