Notice that the 2 loops are independent and not nested. So, we can look at them separately and then add the result.
Assume that you do not know the relation between N and M. So, try to suggest your answer as a function of N and M (max or addition maybe).

Remember that space complexity is measured in terms of the largest amount of memory used during runtime.